A house earned after 11 years of effort falls deep into the ground in a minute

An average citizen Dong-won (KIM Sung-kyun) and his family move into a house bought after years of hard work. Filled with happiness, he invites his colleagues for a housewarming party, but the heavy rain during the night before creates a gigantic sinkhole, and in a mere minute, it swallows up the whole house and the people inside. Hundreds of meters down the hole, Dong-won, his neighbor Man-su (CHA Seung-won), and the unfortunate guests must find their way out. Rain starts to pour down, filling the sinkhole with water, and they're running out of time.

Enter the land of spies, careful where it leads you

In Shenyang, China, a silent battlefield of spies as the center of Asia, Kang-in (SUL Kyung-gu), the leader of National Intelligence Service's overseas branch, leads his Black Team with the best agents in carrying out covert missions. Kang-in is notorious for mercilessly taking any measure to get what he wants, earning himself the nickname "Yaksha," a human-devouring spirit. One day, Ji-hoon (PARK Hae-soo) arrives as a prosecutor to investigate Black Team, and even with their ignorance, he finds out that their real mission concerns a case that can shake up the whole continent. Soon enough, Kang-in needs to use all his sources, even Ji-hoon, to find his way deeper into the case.

Special classes of math between two outcasts:

A genius mathematician with a hidden past and a needy student given up on math

Ji-woo (KIM Dong-hwi), an outcast in a prestigious private high school, does not fit in due to different social backgrounds than his well-to-do classmates. One day, he meets Hak-sung (CHOI Min-sik), the school's security guard who is actually a mathematical genius defected from North Korea, now living with his past shut away. Ji-woo asks Hak-sung to teach him math, and although reluctant at first, Hak-sung eventually agrees to. Finding each other in their most difficult times, Ji-woo and Hak-sung open up to one another during their special math lessons, but their friendship is at risk when Ji-woo is framed for an incident in school, and Hak-sung is faced with people prying on his past.

In three days, the devil shall be gone or awoken

When Seung-do (PARK Shin-yang), a heart specialist, and his wife find their daughter So-mi (LEE Re) showing strange symptoms by the day, they decide to attempt an exorcism ritual. Upon arrival, Priest Ban (LEE Min-ki) is sure there is the devil inside her, and the ritual seems to drive it out successfully, but ends in So-mi's sudden death. As her funeral begins, Seung-do, who notices some strange signs in So-mi's body, confronts his conviction that she may not be dead yet, and her heart is still beating. No one believes him, especially Priest Ban, who strongly opposes him saying that it is the menacing spirit inside her. During three days of So-mi's mystery, they must each uncover the terrifying truth about the mystery, and prove who is right, to save her.
